- I. The E-Teaching/Learning Promotion Committee (hereinafter “the Committee”) of Wenzao has been instituted for encouraging instructors to offer e-courses, to produce digital materials, to provide students with multi-modal ways of learning, and to improve the e-teaching quality and learning effectiveness.
- II. Organization of the Committee:
 - A. The Committee is comprised of a chairperson and an executive member. The Dean of Academic Affairs acts as the chair and the Director of the Center for Faculty Development acts as the executive member.
 - B. The Director of Information and Instructional Technology Center and the Director of the Division of Continuing Education are de facto members.
 - C. Other members of the Committee are five instructors appointed by the President among those who are familiar with or committed to e-teaching/learning. Each member serves a term of one year. Members may serve multiple terms if appointed.
- III. The Committee is responsible for:
 - A. devising guidelines governing e-teaching/learning;
 - B. planning, reviewing, subsidizing, and evaluating e-courses;
 - C. drafting procedures for rewarding e-teaching/learning;
 - D. contributing with ideas regarding issues such as facilities, platforms, digital material production, etc.; and
 - E. other matters related to e-teaching/learning.
- IV. The Committee meets once every semester. When necessary, ad-hoc meetings may be called.
- V. Members of the Curriculum Committee and other related personnel may be invited to attend the meeting.
- VI. The Guidelines become effective after they are approved at the Executive Committee Meeting and ratified by the President. Amendments must follow the same procedure.
